Title	Corporate Social Responsibility: the Eni case study
Language	Italian
Supervisor	Marco Grasso
Thesis Summary	The aim of the research was to illustrate the contribution made by the main oil and gas industries in terms of greenhouse gas emissions and in particular the denial of their responsibility for climate change. Company strategy adopted by Eni to address the climatic risks incorporated in their business models, in their business processes and to manage their effects on the climate was illustrated. This analysis was developed starting from bibliographic contributions on corporate social responsibility and from the data contained in the sustainability and decarbonisation reports published by Eni. About forty questions have been submitted to Eni's Central Management shedding light on how their interventions and their statements are aligned with the Paris Agreement and if the company effectively manages the risks and opportunities related to the energy transition. Through the study of corporate social responsibility it is possible to understand whether the company's strategy is oriented more towards the shareholder or towards the stakeholder.

Social skills and competences Living and working with other people, in multicultural environments, in positions where communication is important and situations where teamwork is essential (e.g. Culture and sports), etc.	I am interested in economics, research and science in general, on which I keep myself constantly updated. I am active in the social sector, a volunteer in Legambiente Lombardia. My interests are topic relating to the supply chain, environment, sustainability. My current university research is oriented towards the study of the future trends in supply chain management.
Organisational skills and competences E.g. coordination and management of people, projects and budgets; at work, in voluntary work (e.g. culture and sports) and at home, etc.	During the Erasmus experience, I developed excellent communication and team working skills, thanks to group work. I am also characterized by a strong autonomy in the organization of work and in the achievement of objectives, as well as a strong determination in achieving results. In my work I have shown a strong aptitude for interpersonal communication.
Technical skills and competences With computers, specific kinds of equipment, machinery, etc.	Optimal knowledge of MS Office, OpenOffice and LibreOffice office suites and Microsoft Windows, GNU / Linux Ubuntu and MacOSX Apple operating systems. Basic knowledge of SPSS statistics software.
Artistic skills and competences	In my free time I enjoy reading many novels, playing tennis, and swimming

Music, writing, drawing etc.
